KEY FACTS

- Aggregates are sand, gravel, crushed rock, marine dredged and recycled construction raw materials most essential for our built environment
- The aggregates sector is by far the largest amongst the non-energy extractive industries
- The European aggregates demand is 3 billion tonnes per year, representing a turnover of around €20 billion
- The European average aggregates demand is 5.8 tonnes per capita per year
- Some 91% of all aggregates produced are from natural resources in quarries and pits
- The remaining 9% comes from recycled aggregates (5%), the rest being marine and manufactured aggregates (2% each)
- The aggregates industry comprises some 15,000 companies (mostly SMEs) operating in 26,000 quarries and pits across Europe, employing 238,000 people directly and indirectly.

President's Introduction

The UEPG Sustainable Development Awards is the major event to reward companies that have successfully integrated the social, economic and/or environmental dimensions of sustainable development into their operations. The UEPG Sustainable Development Awards promote the dissemination of best practices and encourage projects which go beyond what is required by planners and regulators. It is intended that the Awards should provide examples which others could follow.

UEPG launched its first European Restoration Awards scheme in 1997 followed by a second scheme in 1999 and a third in 2001. Due to the success of this programme it was decided to enlarge the scope to all aspects of sustainable development since 2005.

In 2013, we have had a record 52 entries from 14 countries, all entries being of outstanding quality. UEPG is honoured to have an independent Jury, each of the four members being internationally distinguished experts in their fields.

As in the past, UEPG is committed to all three pillars of sustainable development and in particular on health & safety, restoration, biodiversity and environmental best practice. More than half of all entries are falling under these categories. Restored but also active quarries and pits form an integral part of nature parks and Natura 2000 protected sites underlining the compatibility of aggregates extraction and nature protection.

Besides the publication in this brochure and on the UEPG website, all Award Winners and entries with a Certificate will be part of a touring exhibition in the different EU Institutions during 2014/2015. This will be the "calling-card" for our industry. It will continue to add value for the one who contributed to this year's Award and for the whole industry sector demonstrating excellence where policy decisions are being made.

I would like to thank our Members and all the companies who made the UEPG Sustainable Development Awards 2013 a success. Their efforts are most impressive against the background of the continued economic crisis. I would like to thank the Jury Members for their time to study in detail the 52 entries.
